Add-On Options

Product Announcement Forum: Schedule your organization to be part of a showcase of upcoming flight simulator product releases. Held in the 100 person Simsbury Room and geared towards our media partners and VIPs, the Product Announcement Forum will provide a one-stop overview of some of the latest and upcoming releases for the flight simulation community. The session will take place at the beginning of the conference on Saturday and each participant will be allotted approximately 5 minutes to demonstrate their products. The entire session is expected to last 30-45 minutes, depending on interest.

- Participate in Product Announcement Forum – $75

Whova Mobile App Banner: FlightSimCon 2017 has partnered with Whova, a leading mobile event app, to provide conference attendees with an easy platform to communicate and find information. The app will include the conference schedule, networking opportunities for attendees, and real-time notifications and alerts from the conference organizers. The conference will encourage all attendees to download and use the app throughout the weekend. Basic logos and descriptions for all sponsors will be included in the app by default. However, exhibitors and sponsors also have the opportunity to purchase a custom banner ad that displays periodically on the home page of the app.

- Whova Mobile App Rotating Banner – $100

Send Emails to Conference Attendees: Sponsors and exhibitors may purchase the opportunity to send two emails to all registered conference attendees for promotional purposes. Emails will be sent in late spring 2017 leading up to the conference and, although not required, are encouraged to include special deals or provide ‘teaser-announcements’ for demonstrations that will occur at the conference.

- Conference Attendee Emails – $100
